

RUSDEN

BAROSSA VALLEY

2015 CHOOKSHED

A sensory overload of aniseed, dried fruits, black currant, cedar, ash and raisin, followed by a tsunami of layered fruit and spice with incredible richness and density. For any Zin lover, this is one for the ages.

Earlier this year a well known wine writer said that this wine epitomised Rusden with its Muhammed Ali “float like a butterfly, sting like a bee” style. I think he hit the nail on the head in describing our “house style.” Wines full of power and precision that dance so gracefully across the canvas at the same time.

2015 gave us another warm, dry growing season with little rain providing ideal conditions for the mighty Zin.
